

Forecast For The United Kingdom
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Thursday 13 May 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:

Persistent rain for parts of southwest England, showers elsewhere.

Today:

Persistent rain continuing parts of southwest England, chilly here. Elsewhere a mix of sunny spells and showers, heaviest of these across the Midlands into east Wales and over Northern Ireland with the risk of thunder. Generally cloudier in the northeast.

Tonight:

Showers dying out for most of the UK though still some rain for parts of central and southern England and south Wales. Cool in the north.

Friday:

Mostly dry and fine but fairly cloudy for eastern and northern parts. Wales, southern England and Northern Ireland seeing sunny spells and showers - heavy and thundery in Northern Ireland.

Outlook for Saturday to Monday:

Sunny spells and showers, often heavy with a risk of thunder, becoming increasingly widespread. Light winds, moderate to fresh in the far south. Temperatures a little below average overall.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.